Agnew and GOP Governors It 'Eyeball to Eyeball'

By David S. Broder

ALLEY, Idaho, Dec. 16 (AP)—Vice-President Spiro Agnew today launched his campaign against almost three hours of television to tell newsmen reason to change his approach.

I feel I have conducted a campaign that has been a success, he said, but I am not ready to accept the analysis of columnists and commentators who are our ideological antagonists, he said.

Mr. Agnew conceded at today's press conference that "several errors had been made" but that the criticism of his strategy was "unfair and unbalanced."

Mr. Agnew made at least one remark that was not a criticism of his strategy. He said that the White House and the state capitals have almost become "non-existent."

Mr. Agnew conceded on the second point and agreed to ask President Nixon to centralize federal-state relations in the White House, rather than continuing the present "diffusion of contacts" through the state capitals.

Mr. Agnew was originally entrusted by the President with the chief liaison role but criticism has mounted in recent months that he was spending little time on that job.

He told newsmen today that "it has become obvious to me in recent months that the good intentions... had not been achieved as dramatically as we expected."

Agnew's concession on this point and his explanation of his speech last night and campaign rhetoric softened the anger of several of the governors. Gov. McCall, the most outspoken critic, said: "The Vice-President showed a lot of poise and maturity in what he called 'the most genuine eyeball-to-eyeball meeting I've ever seen.'"

Fuel Oil Men Strike in N.Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—The city's unionized fuel oil drivers went on strike today, posing the threat of heatless apartment buildings in freezing December weather.

Many apartment buildings have reserves of oil for only one or two days.

The strike over wage disputes was expected to idle tank truck drivers, terminal employees and oil burner servicemen. Affected by the walk-out were all five boroughs of New York City, and adjacent areas.

3 Left Hotel After Midnight —Was Hughes One of Them?

LAS VEGAS, Dec. 16 (UPI)—A man who said he was hired by a personal secretary to Howard Hughes testified yesterday he saw a man taken from the Desert Inn Hotel Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 25, by two men who held him up under the arms.

Levane N. Forsythe, a contracting engineer from Torrance, Calif., appeared as a witness for Robert A. Maheu, who is fighting his dismissal as the billionaire's director of Nevada operations.

Mr. Forsythe said he heard someone call out for Mr. Maheu as the party moved across the parking lot.

Hired to Stand Guard

Mr. Forsythe, who did not specifically identify the man being taken from the hotel as Mr. Hughes, said he was hired by J.L. Crawford, one of Mr. Hughes's five secretaries. The witness said he was ordered to stand guard with seven or eight other men in the Desert Inn parking lot at 1:45 a.m.

"At about 1:50 I observed three gentlemen coming from the north side of the Desert Inn," he testified.

"I saw two men, tall in stature, with one man in the center. They were holding up the man in the center. They had their hands under his arms. The gentleman in the center either had on a topcoat, raincoat or bathrobe."

Mr. Forsythe said that when the trio approached a car in the lot, "I heard a person ask for Mr. Bob Maheu or Pat Hyland." Mr. Hyland is head of Hughes Aircraft Co.

Mr. Forsythe, who said he made a statement to sheriff's deputies, was paid $500 for the job. The Sheriff's Department raised the Hughes penthouse the following Sunday amid reports authorities believed Mr. Hughes was kidnapped. The billionaire is said to be in the Bahamas now.

"Laughing Stock of World"

The chief counsel for the Hughes Tool Co., which wants to fire Mr. Maheu, said during the morning session that all parties concerned were going to be "the laughing stock of the world" if they did not the public battle over control of the Hughes empire in Nevada.

Chester W. Davis, a New York lawyer who has represented Mr. Hughes for years, called for a conclusion of the courtroom hearing into whether Hughes Tool had the authority to fire Mr. Maheu.

Two veteran handwriting experts have given diametrically opposed testimony about whether Mr. Hughes's signature on a proxy authorizing Mr. Maheu's dismissal was genuine.

Mistrial Motion Planned Monday In Tate Case

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16 (UPI)—Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older yesterday ordered that the Tate murder trial resume Monday after a two-week break. A newly appointed attorney said he would move then for a mistrial for one of the women defendants, Leslie Van Houten.

Maxwell Keith, appointed to represent Miss Van Houten after the disappearance of one of her attorneys, Ronald Hughes, said that he would ask that her case be severed from that of Charles Manson and two other female defendants and a mistrial be declared.

Mr. Keith said that if Judge Older denied his motion, he was prepared to proceed on her behalf, with Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi beginning the final arguments to the jury in the six-month old trial.

Mr. Keith would not disclose the reasons he intended to advance for a mistrial for Miss Van Houten. He said he felt he had been given sufficient time to read up on the 18,000-page transcript of the case.

Among Opponents of Vietnam Policies Senator Says Army Spied on U.S. Officials

By Ken W. Clawson

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (WP)—Army intelligence was accused yesterday of spying on Democratic Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson 3d, former Republican Gov. Otto Kerner, Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva and 800 other civilians in Illinois during the last two years.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D., N.C., chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights, told the Senate the charges were made by a former Army intelligence agent who operated out of a Chicago field office from June, 1968, through last June.

The agent, who subsequently was identified as John M. O'Brien, of Evanston, Ill., will appear before Sen. Ervin's subcommittee in February.

Sen. Ervin demanded the Army

Chafee Orders Navy to Seek Racial Equality

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee has told his commanders that troubled race relations "can no longer be swept under the rug."

Mr. Chafee said yesterday the Navy is establishing race relations programs throughout the service, and announced the appointment of a special assistant for equal opportunity.

At present, he said, only slightly more than one-half of 1 percent of the Navy's officers are black. In the Marine Corps, the figure is 1 percent.

"While even these low percentages represent considerable progress in recent years, it is evident that we have a long way to go before our efforts to promote equal opportunity begin to bear real fruit," Mr. Chafee said.

Toward that goal, the Navy plans several moves, including the establishment of more reserve officer training programs at predominantly black colleges, Mr. Chafee said. Only one black school, Prairie View in Texas, has a Navy ROTC program.

had been on the Yale faculty for 45 years until his retirement in 1952.

Although in his undergraduate days at Yale he did not make any of the varsity teams, he was active in intramural football, baseball, tennis and track, and years later headed Yale's athletic program.

As a Latin scholar, Mr. Mendell uncovered five "lost" manuscripts of the Latin historian Tacitus. His Tacitus library, which he presented to Yale in 1952, is considered one of the finest in the world.

He considered his most important Latin manuscript "find" was a Tacitus work that had been referred to by the Dutch scholar Theodor Ryck in 1867. Its survival had been doubted in scholarly circles for about 250 years, when, in the 1930s, Mr. Mendell found it in the archives at the University of Leyden.

The author of dozens of articles on Rome's Augustan and silver ages for philological journals, Mr. Mendell also wrote five books on classical subjects and published two volumes of poetry, "Jeanne d'Arc" and "Prometheus."

Israelis Claim Arab Slain in Lebanon Clash

In Gaza, Truck Driver Is Killed in Ambush

TEL AVIV, Dec. 16 (UPI)—Israeli troops killed an Arab guerrilla in a clash on the Lebanese frontier today, Israeli military spokesmen said.

In Beirut, Lebanese military spokesmen said an Israeli patrol blew up four empty houses in a south Lebanon village in an apparent reprisal for an earlier Arab guerrilla attack close to the border.

The Lebanese spokesman said the patrol crossed one mile into Lebanese territory and destroyed the vacant houses in the Lebanese village of Bida. There were no casualties, the spokesman said.

In Tel Aviv, the spokesman said the Arab guerrilla died when a squad of infiltrators from Lebanon opened fire on an Israeli patrol near the frontier settlement of Zarit about 8:30 a.m.

Flee to Lebanon

The Israelis returned fire, out down one guerrilla and the rest fled back into Lebanon, he said. There were no Israeli casualties.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, an Arab guerrilla machine-gunner ambushed and bludgeoned to death an Israeli civilian truck driver, an Israeli military spokesman said.

The spokesman said the incident happened about 8 p.m. yesterday on the outskirts of Gaza Town. The truck was returning to Israeli territory from an Israeli-owned citrus packing plant in the strip.

As Israeli investigators reconstructed the incident from evidence on the spot, machine-gun bullets found in the rear tires sent the truck careening off the road. The driver was wounded but nevertheless leaped clear before the truck overturned.

As the wounded Israeli tried to escape into nearby fields, the guerrilla overtook him and bludgeoned him to death with head blows, the spokesman said.

Knesset Meets to Protest Trial Of Jews as Hijackers in Russia

JERUSALEM, Dec. 16 (Reuters).—The Israeli parliament met here today in solemn session to protest against the trial in Leningrad of 11 people, mostly Jews, on charges of trying to seize a Soviet airliner to Helsinki.

Deputy Premier Yigal Alon told the assembly that the proceedings, which opened yesterday, are "a show trial staged and directed by the Soviet secret services."

Addressing an extraordinary session of the Knesset (parliament), Mr. Alon said, "We will not even be surprised if some of the accused 'confess' to the crime they did not commit, in accordance with the best traditions of the Stalin era."

There has been no official confirmation from Moscow of reports that the Leningrad trial has begun. Unofficial reports yesterday said the 11 men were charged under Article 64 of the Criminal Code, dealing with treason, which includes flight abroad. The maximum penalty is death.

Mr. Alon said ten or 11 so-called Soviet conspirators are on trial and seven of them have unmistakably Jewish names.

The deputy premier said the total number of Jews arrested since last June has reached 35. The pretext for the arrests, he said, was the alleged attempt to hijack an aircraft to escape from the Soviet union and come to Israel.

Mr. Alon urged enlightened circles in the world, including Communist supporters, to mobilize public opinion to protest to the Soviet authorities against "the Soviet policy of discrimination against Jews."

With massive support from the American community, the American Center for Youth in Belgium, located in Brussels, is a rambling group of buildings on the fringes of the city. The center already has paid director and staff, and is open to 13 to 19-year-olds. Membership is as high as 800. The center was originally founded by the American youth, the children of the center, who have their own special, cultural and recreational activities. The center is a family trip, order to attend a light dance at the named "Socrates' Cup" by the youngsters, incorporates an abandoned movie theater and child care center, circling a large inner courtyard. The property is spacious but run-down. ("A disaster area," said a despairing parent two months ago.) New heating, plumbing and wiring are being installed, plus a kitchen, a snack bar, a library, a basketball court, billiards, pool and ping-pong tables, and a juke box. The main social hall has a small stage, and the game room, with a brick fireplace, is being redesigned as a conversation pit with low, built-in seating.

The daily crew of workmen is supplemented on the weekends by the teenagers, who help clean, paint, strip walls, and sort away rubbish. "I think my biggest problem," says director Philip Thompson, "is expecting too much of these kids. At 16 or 18, they're really big—they do beautiful, exciting things—but suddenly, when you're talking to them, they say something and you realize they're not 21 or 24."

Being 27 himself, married, and the father of a two-year-old son, Mr. Thompson hopes he can bridge the center's generation gap. Smoking is allowed on the premises, but not drinking. This was the compromise of the 20-member youth council and the board of directors, which includes two student representatives and clergymen from local American churches. "And the kids don't want, dope brought in," said Mr. Thompson, "but anyone on a bad trip can find help here. It's for that person that a youth center is needed."

Annual Budget

Parents are never called on to chaperone evening events; the Thompsons and other young adults do this. Besides dances every Saturday night to five and recorded music, there are movies on Friday night, professional football films on Wednesday night, junior and senior "youth raps" (informal discussion groups) on Sundays and Mondays, and drama workshops throughout the week. The center's annual budget is set at about $45,000 and it is hoped that most of this will come from dues and fund-raising activities. Preliminary expenditures on equipment will run from $50,000 to nearly double that, "depending on donations and our willingness to compromise," explained a board member. Chevron Oil has handed over a check for $3,000 and Esso and IIT have given $5,000 each. Altogether there are about 1,000 firms in Belgium with American interests. After these are canvassed, Belgian companies will be contacted.

Some of the most valuable donations never end up in the bank account: Building materials from construction companies, legal assistance from a law office, free accounting service, and a slick fund-raising brochure designed by an advertising firm. A few activities are under way to encourage cultural integration. An art historian is giving a series of talks on Belgium and taking a group to visit the famous Toone Puppets, preceded by a typical Belgian meal. At Socrates' Cup, however, the bill of fare will continue to be hamburgers and malted milk. "They want the center to have an American character," explained Mr. Thompson. "They want it to be a piece of America that they can show off to other nationalities." He rubbed his Zapata mustache thoughtfully. "I guess the only non-American thing at the center is our table soccer game."

Dining Out in Paris: Specializing in Seafood

By Jon Winthrop

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Although seafood is very pleasant in the summer because most of it is at light, it is still generally speaking better in the winter.

Refrigeration still has not entirely solved the problem of conservation. And of course many shellfish are not at their best in the warm months. Oysters, for instance, spawn in the summer and while perfectly edible, are not as fat and succulent as in winter and in the summer they may have an unpleasant milky substance inside their shells.

Thus, with the cold weather upon us, this is the best time of year to try a seafood restaurant such as Mommation in Neuilly on the outskirts of Paris. Today, this restaurant is a far cry from the modest establishment founded in 1914 by Mr. Mommation. Pierre Mommation took over from his father just after World War II. He decorated the restaurant and, soon, all sorts of famous people began dropping in. In line with this, Mr. Mommation, who has an impressive collection of wine and food diplomas, created his own private order of the Companions of the Periwinkle.

Free Periwinkles

There are now more than 3,000 members but only about 200 people a year are added to the list. Still all customers get free periwinkles while they wait for their food, and Mr. Mommation estimates that this comes to 3 1/2 tons of these little sea snails a year.

Alas, the rest of the menu does not come so cheaply, but you do get your money's worth in quality. The various oysters, clams, mussels, sea urchins and the like are delicious, fresh or cooked.

Among the latter are steamed mussels marinière (with shallots and white wine), baked stuffed mussels and clams, and scallops provençale (sauteed in butter with garlic and parsley).

The numerous fish preparations, on the whole, rather simple but extraordinarily good. Bouillabaisse, the rich saffron-flavored Mediterranean fish stew, is an exception to this, but most of the other fish are grilled or poached and served with classic sauces such as Béarnaise and Hollandaise.

(Brenda Spigner) and his friend ring out like truth in an echo-chamber. But the writing is oddly poor, oddly careless. . . . Yet there is talent here. And parts to act—parts so true in themselves that they actually transcend the writing. This is unusual." The play was also "very well staged by Alice Spivak," according to The Times critic.

"The Last Pad," William Inge's latest play, presented by 4 A Productions at the 13th Street Theater, is set on death row and the three main characters (Tim Lewis, Warren Pincus, Jack Kiernan) are murderers about to be executed. "Another slice of the Inge landscape," writes Mel Gussow in The Times, "but without the intimacy, the small insights into human nature, and those little twists of humor that make the mundane seem self-satisfying." The major interest onstage, in Gussow's opinion, is Archie, the homosexual who has killed his mother and a grandmother, "amusingly" played by Warren Pincus. "Greenwillow," a musical which had a short run on Broadway ten years ago, revived by the Equity Library Theater at the Master Theater, was well enough done, considering the natural limitations of a small stage, a tight budget and only piano accompaniment, reports Times man Barnes. "Billy Fuzo's permanent setting was agreeable, and Clinton Atkinson's staging was direct, unfussy and to the point. 'Greenwillow' does not offer too many opportunities for the choreographer, but such opportunities as there were well seized by Deborah Jowitz." The best and by far the most assured performance came from Mary Jo Catlett, the critic says. John High and Bernard Frawley were "admirable" as well. Music and lyrics were by Frank Loesser.

"Tarot," a mime musical conceived by The Rubber Duck, directed by The Rubber Duck and Robert Kalin is "moderately distinguished" if you "close your eyes, forget The Rubber Duck and his ludicrous staging, and just go with the music," Clive Barnes said in The Times. Tom Constanten, Chicken Hatch of Country Joe and the Fish and, among others, Jerry Garcia of the Grateful Dead composed the music. Most of the singing is by Yolande Bevan. The show is being presented by the Chelsea Theater Center of Brooklyn at the Brooklyn Academy of Music through Dec. 20 when operations are likely to be suspended for the current season because of lack of funds. "The Life and Times of J. Walter Smith," a play by Edgar White being presented at the Theater de Lys by the American National Theater, "is fascinatingly bad," Clive Barnes says in The Times. "Clive White's story is fine, and his characterizations of Smith (Earle Hyman), his wife the Louvre's suggestion: paper made from Turgot's map of Paris.

For relaxed shopping, another good place to visit is Sona, the Indian shop at 200 Rue Saint-Honore. Sona has a sensuous, Oriental feeling of luxury, a wide selection of gifts which start at 5 francs (90 cents), for a stick of incense and other low prices which are explained by the fact that the shop is sponsored by the Indian government to promote the country's crafts.

The last thing one expects to find here are Christmas tree ornaments, but there is a large Christian colony in southern India. A nice change from the traditional, ordinary multi-colored balls and tinsel, the Indian decorations include pear-shaped birds, single bells, gold-headed eags, crystal flutes and lacquered or cut-glass fish that hover like mobiles. The ornaments vary in price from 3 to 12 francs (54 cents to $2.16) and can be topped by a very Indian Christmas star, hot pink and all of 14 francs ($2.50).

But this shop, a favorite of surrealist painter Leonor Fini and dancer Maurice Béjart, is chock full of gift possibilities which sing with fantastic colors and have that unique, touching, handmade quality.

Starting from the top floor down, there's a wonderful stock of sari silks available, for the first time, by the yard at 138 francs ($24.84) a yard, but those silks, delicately powdered with gold or silver specks, are so rich looking they need a minimum of seams. Followers of Krishna's life could be a bright note in a child's room and cost 25 francs ($4.50). Lacquered orange straw boxes pasted all over with tiny cut mirrors are also bargains, ranging from 18 to 45 francs ($3.28 to $8.10). Stuffed with chocolates or scented chestnuts, they easily equal the most expensive gifts of candy.

Huge, tie-dyed shawls, which could be made into evening skirts, cost a modest 80 francs ($14.40) and would go well with embroidered slippers, which are 30 francs ($5.40).

There are knockknacks galore, including perfectly useless but popular pillboxes, which at Sona are better than most because they are topped by semi-precious stones, agate or jade, and are diminutive in price as well as size at 22 to 38 francs ($3.98 to $6.84).

Finally, Sona has a large collection of folk dolls so prettily naive that it makes one wish one were a child again. There's the whole Indian social spectrum, singers, dancers, farmers, soldiers and even a dear little peasant woman, a baby on her breast.

What a telling comment it is on the smallness of the men who now run Russia that they keep NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV imprisoned in his own country, forcing him to the indignity of collaborating with the secret police in order to tell his story abroad, preventing him from telling his story at home, and denying his obviously fervent plea to open the borders of the Soviet Union and give its citizens "a chance to find out for themselves what the world is like."

PARIS—One of the effects of the United States still remaining technically at war with Germany was illustrated at a diplomatic dinner here on Wednesday. Both Mr. Campbell Wallace, the American Ambassador, and Herr Mayer, the German Ambassador, were present. Herr Mayer asked the Chief of Protocol to present him to Mr. Wallace. Mr. Wallace, however, refused, explaining that as the United States is still at war with Germany he could hardly accept a presentation to a German diplomatic officer.

The Soviet Union, of course, has no monopoly on one-sided thinking. Washington thinks it is quite normal to have military bases in Turkey; close to the Soviet border, and not only "abnormal" but unthinkable that Moscow should have a base or facility for its submarines in Cuba. But even so, officials there seem to regard the military status quo in the world as little more than a convenient halfway station, from which they can expand their influence and power.

There is a fundamental difference, I think, in the way officials in the two capitals look at the status quo. The United States looks at it as a reasonably safe live-and-let-live arrangement which will give the two sides time to adjust to one another and eventually lead to a general settlement of world

French Universities

May I express my total disagreement with Wendy Wright's denigration (IBT, Dec. 15) of the nature and quality of French university education? Having myself spent two years as a student in French universities—after taking degrees from Williams College and Harvard University—I have found that, on the contrary, the lectures can be, and usually are, both valuable and stimulating, "austere, medieval amphitheatres" to the contrary notwithstanding.

In addition to these four divisions, the enemy high command has scrambled together a pseudo-guerrilla unit known as the Phuoc Long Brigade. The brigade is led by high Viet Cong officials who were stranded here by the invasion of the sanctuaries.

Add it all up... It would appear to be enough for the march on Phnom Penh to begin tomorrow morning. It is a clear sign of enemy weakness, in fact, that the North Vietnamese have instead chosen the less daring expedient of blocking the main routes that nourish the capital city.

As a result, the enemy now looks as if it has lost its grip in the end to the strange Phnom Penh. Consider, for instance, the enemy's seizure of the high pass through the Elephant Mountains.

Mr. Brandt is extremely sensitive to this charge, and lately has been trying to show that if anything he is more Western than before. He has repeated it in the press, and his foreign minister repeats it in Brussels.

the budget deficit he may incur in fiscal 1972—at this point, it looks like $15 billion or more.

Kennedy Had Same Problem

The Nixon position is similar to what the Kennedy administration faced in 1963: A federal budget in deficit with the economy underemployed and sluggish.

The way to reduce the deficit was to press for a stimulative fiscal policy.

That was precisely what the new economics—and the $13 billion tax cut of 1964—was all about.

The astonishing result was that, where the federal deficit (on the old, administrative budget basis) was $2.2 billion in fiscal 1964, the deficit for fiscal 1964 was reduced to $3.4 billion.

The reason was that the massive tax cut sparked a strong economic expansion that brought in higher tax revenues—despite lower tax rates.

Accord Is Termed Unique

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—A complex out-of-court settlement signed yesterday in New York calls for seven defendants in the celebrated Parvin-Dohrmann securities fraud case to put stock worth about $1 million into a trust fund for other Parvin-Dohrmann investors.

At the same time, however, it permits them to keep about $3.8 million in cash already paid them by Harold Butler, former chairman of Denny's Restaurants Inc., giving each of the seven a significant profit.

In the settlement, described as unique in the annals of securities law, the seven consented—without admitting guilt—to injunctions barring them from future securities law violations and from any future role in the company.

They dropped all claim to payment from $9.4 million in notes from Mr. Butler, another defendant in the suit.

The settlement was with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which filed suit in 1969.

The seven defendants are Edward Torres, who managed Parvin-Dohrmann's three casinos in Las Vegas; Sidney Korshak, prominent lawyer and labor relations consultant; his brother Marshall, a Chicago political figure; Jill St. John, the actress; and Gerald Nathan and Saul Herfeld, brothers who are New York businessmen and investors.

SEC Results

SEC litigation resulted in suspension of trading in Parvin-Dohrmann stock last year, the ouster of Chicago entrepreneur Delbert W. Coleman as the company's chairman and chief executive, and charges of influence peddling and perjury involving Washington lobbyist Nathan Voloshen and Martin Swager, former chief aide to House Speaker John W. McCormack. Still unsettled are numerous private suits.

Judgments have not yet been entered against defendants Albert B. Parvin, a founder of the firm bearing his name and Mr. Voloshen.

The SEC suit charged Mr. Coleman and other defendants with manipulating the price of the stock and scheming to unload it at an inflated price.

The defendants were all parties to a special private purchase of 88,000 shares at $15 a share by Mr. Butler in connection with a plan—later abandoned—for Denny's to acquire Parvin-Dohrmann.

The SEC charged that this deal, at a price about 50 percent higher than the market price of the stock, favored the seven selling shareholders over the public shareholders.

Seeking Disgorgement

The commission was seeking disgorgement by the seven of what it called these "ill-gotten gains."

Mr. Butler charged the seven had duped him and demanded rescission of the deal. The seven sellers, in turn, denied any wrongdoing and contended they were entitled to full payment from Mr. Butler.

Under the settlement, the seven get to keep $4.3 a share which Mr. Butler gave them as a down payment and Mr. Butler renounces any claim to their shares.

In turn, each of the seven agrees to turn over to a court-appointed trustee some of his stock for a combined total of 41,500 shares.

Who Can Buy

The seven are required to sell their remaining shares within a year and ten days. They must get prior court approval if they sell their stock other than in the open market without designating the buyer.

The 41,500 shares assigned to the trustee include 1,500 shares which are to go for his expenses. The remaining 40,000 shares are to be distributed to some of the people who were shareholders of Parvin-Dohrmann on July 10, 1969, the day the deal with Mr. Butler was consummated.

Most Losses on NYSE Erased in Late Buying

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (Reuters).—Last minute bargain hunters helped prices on the New York Stock Exchange finish almost in the plus column after a weak start today.

For most of the day, prices declined in listless trading. But in the last hour and a half, they recovered on sharply accelerated buying.

Some analysts attributed the late upsurge to institutional buying following this week's pause for consolidation, which some called surprisingly mild.

The Dow Jones industrial average, after almost a 5 point drop early in the day, closed fractionally lower at $19.07, down 0.33.

The NYSE index actually managed a token gain of 0.08 to close at 48.79.

Volume rose to 14.24 million shares from yesterday's 13.42 million shares.

The big loser was Memorex, which had been delayed nearly all day and finally opened down 14 points at $5. It was the second most active issue, closing at $9 3/4, off 9 1/4.

The computer sector again came under some early heavy selling pressure following yesterday's 9-point plunge by Memorex when it restated its nine month results.

But some analysts contended the software came from comments that peripheral equipment makers will face a harder time under market pressure from giant IBM, which added 2 at $13.

Telex dropped 1/2 to 17 1/4 at the head of the active list on volume of 1.14 million shares, or triple that of runner-up Memorex.

Oil was another group that erased most of their losses. Standard Oil of New Jersey, fifth on the active list, was down 1/4 to 76. Its largely-owned subsidiary Creole Petroleum, the country's major foreign producer, lost 3/8 to 26 1/2.

Chase Manhattan, down 3/8 at 49 1/8, was third most active. Other banks were also easier. Analysts said no climb in loan demand was the reason for the weakness.

H. J. Heinz dropped 1 3/4 to 36 1/4. It owns a large tuna packer and attributed the decline

Bundesbank Calls Anti-Speculative Moves a Success

FRANKFURT, Dec. 16 (UPI).—The Bundesbank's central council held its last meeting before Christmas today and expressed satisfaction with the measures already taken to counteract the flow of foreign money into the country.

Central bank president Karl Klagen said that the bank's assumption that the 0.5-point drop in the bank rate two weeks ago, to 6 percent, would stop the foreign currency flood, had been borne out.

He said about 100 million deutsche marks ($37.32 million) worth of currency came into the country from abroad in the first half of December.

Before the cut in the bank rate the inflow amounted at times to 1 billion DM daily as foreigners rushed to reap dividends from the interest rate, which was higher than generally obtainable abroad.

Wages in EEC

Jump 14 Percent

BRUSSELS, Dec. 16 (Reuters).—Wages in Common Market countries will show an average increase of 14 percent this year, the highest rate since the community was founded in 1958, the Common Market Executive Commission said in its latest monthly economic bulletin.

The commission said Italy recorded the largest rise with 18 percent. West Germany followed with 15 percent and rises averaged 11 to 12 percent in other member countries.

The increase in productivity, slowed, and the upward thrust of wages is reflected all the more in a rise in the cost of labor per unit of output, the commission said.

Is your present banker an international banker? Or just an American banker overseas?

In the highly complex world of international business, you don't become an international bank simply by opening a branch overseas.

That's why Manufacturers Hanover has geared its whole international operation to respond to the needs of corporate customers.

Money managers world-wide regard us as their No. 1 U.S. international bank, because through our global network of representative offices we are able to cooperate closely with local banks.

In key money centers, such as London and Frankfurt, we operate full-service branches.

And where the need arises, we form new banks and banking affiliations, such as Manufacturers Hanover Ltd. in London, and our interest in one of Australia's largest investment firms, Development Finance Corporation Ltd.

Twenty-two affiliations—in 14 countries on five continents—include a development company in the Philippines, an investment company in Colombia, and a Luxembourg investment corporation.

All of which makes our multi-billion-dollar international division a highly-flexible partner for expanding multi-national companies.

To coin a phrase, at Manufacturers Hanover, money talks—with a decidedly foreign accent.

Manufacturers Hanover is an international bank.

Canadian Wins Cup Slalom

Betsy Clifford Ends French Ski Streak

By Michael Katz

ISERE, France, Dec. 16 (AP)—Betsy Clifford, the blonde skier from the United States, ended a French ski streak today at the Crystal Slalom, the first of two slalom races today at the Crystal Slalom.

The 21-year-old Canadian skier, Nancy Greene, tied for first place with a time of 1:10.40, followed by Clifford with a time of 1:11.00.

Clifford, who had won the slalom at the 1968 Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, was the only American to finish the race.

The first was the slalom, which was won by the Canadian skier, Nancy Greene, with a time of 1:10.40. Clifford finished second with a time of 1:11.00.

Clifford, who had won the slalom at the 1968 Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, was the only American to finish the race. She had a perfect second run, which was necessary because she trailed Miss Steurer by 1.24 seconds after the first run.

The United States team had something more personal to smile about—its first World Cup points this season. Barbara Cochran finished fifth, behind Wilfried Drexel of Austria and Britta Löffler of France.

Neumann of Ol' Miss Scores 57, Carr Gets 54

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Johnny Neumann of Mississippi State and Carr of Notre Dame were the top scorers in the 1971 college basketball individual scoring championship.

Neumann, a 6-foot-6 sophomore, scored 57 points, the highest individual game performance of the young season, in leading the Rebels to a 109-100 victory over Southern Mississippi last night.

Carr, a 6-8 senior, tossed in 54 points in a losing cause as the Irish fell to Indiana, 106-103.

Gilmore, 7-2, didn't play, but his 30 points against Biscayne on Dec. 1 ranked as the highest output in the country.

Neumann and Carr broke loose in the fourth quarter, with Carr throwing 17 of 18 free throws and 12 of 14 free throws for his 54.

A turnout of 11,343 at South Bend watched the seventh-ranked Irish fall before the 13th-ranked Hoosiers, led by the combined 58-point production of Joby Wright and George McGinnis.

McGinnis and Wright, both 6-7, scored 29 points each as the Hoosiers, down by ten points at halftime, 53-43, rallied to go ahead by nine points, then survived a closing surge by Notre Dame.

"These kids really hustled," said Lou Watson, the Indiana coach. "They were down at the end, but they showed a lot of courage for a young club."

As for Carr's performance, Watson commented: "I said a year ago that Carr was the finest guard I had seen and I haven't changed my mind a bit."

North Carolina, No. 20 and the only other team in the Associated Press top twenty to see action, snapped Virginia's six-game winning streak, 90-75. Dennis Wuych led the 'Heels with 30 points.

Ed Ratleff scored 33 points to lead Long Beach State over Loyola of Chicago, 84-81, in overtime and Tom Window's layup in the closing seconds gave Kent State a 64-62 triumph over Purdue.

Craig Love's 12-foot jumper with six seconds left accounted for Ohio University's 81-80 victory over Wisconsin. Russell Lee's 39 points led Marshall over Morehead, 73-70.

Cavaliers Continue To Lose

Defeat by Knicks Makes Them 2-32

By Sam Goldaper

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (NYT)—The New York Knicks practice sessions sometimes are more interesting than their 110-82 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers was last night at Madison Square Garden.

At least that was the way Walt Frazier felt after the Cavaliers had lost their 32nd in 34 National Basketball Association games.

"It's difficult to motivate yourself for a game like this," said Frazier, who had 25 points. "Just when you try to get something going, they slow you down by calling a time out or by committing a foul. It was like a practice session, but not one of our real rough ones."

But Willis Reed, the Knicks' captain, said: "I'll take any victory, they all count in the standings."

Have DeBusschere fell in line with Frazier's assessment. "When you look at a ball club like that," said DeBusschere, who had 18 rebounds, "you just have to feel they diluted the talent too much with expansion."

This attitude was reflected in the size of the crowd—13,301, smallest of the season—and the overall play of the Knicks, who committed 19 turnovers and allowed the Cavaliers 88 shots to their 83.

The fans were moved to cheer near the end of the third period, however, when the Knicks ran up 15 straight points to move ahead by 81-57.

When the lead increased to 27 points in the fourth quarter, coach Red Holzman started substituting liberally.

Most of the Cavaliers continuously threw the ball away. If they didn't, it was stolen by Frazier, Dick Barnett or Bill Bradley.

"Let's face it," said Bill Fitch, the Cleveland coach. "I'm going to be considered the worst coach of the year, but I hope I won't be the worst teacher."

When someone pointed out that his team had only one assist in the second half, he said: "Which one of our guys messed up?"

Flood's Secret Deal

CURT FLOOD and Bob Short secretly bypassed the rules of baseball and nullified orders from the commissioner when Short hired Flood to play for the Washington Senators next season.

Flood discloses this in his forthcoming book "The Way It Is," scheduled for publication in late February.

Describing the negotiations that resulted in a $110,000 contract, he quotes the Senators' owner as follows:

"I promise you that I won't trade you. And I guarantee you the full year's pay no matter what happens. And at the end of the year, if we don't agree on terms for the following season, I'll make you a free agent so that you can work out a deal with another club. But I can't put any of this in writing. And if anybody says that I agreed to such an arrangement, I'll deny it."

The concessions promised by Short contravene conditions of the reserve system which are part of the standard contract. Flood, whose suit challenging the reserve system was and still is on appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, had asked that the concessions be part of any contract he signed. Short had agreed but Flood advised him that he had already suffered real damages by giving up $100,000 in wages and playing in 1971 would not prejudice his appeal, which was based on the merits of the case tried before Judge Irving Ben Cooper long before Bob Short took a hand in the game.

Miller, Moss, Goldberg, and an associate, Max Gitter, then met with Short and handed him a written list of the concessions Flood required.

"He agreed to them all," the book relates. "Goldberg and Gitter returned to their offices to draw up a memorandum embodying this agreement. Short and I were about to sign the first equitable player's contract in the history of major league baseball. The precedent would be tremendously important—the first huge step toward industry-wide modification of the reserve system."
